International Workshop

Acoustic and electrochemical methods in the study of affinity interactions at surfaces

AEMIS 2016

June 20, 2016

Congress center Družba of the Comenius University, Bratislava, Slovakia

The goal of the workshop is to provide a venue for advancing dynamic characterization of interfaces using acoustic and electrochemical techniques through a series of lectures and discussions. The workshop brings together experts in fundamental and applied aspects of in situ- acoustic and electrochemical diagnostics from Europe, Canada and USA. Workshop is organized in framework of the project FORMILK funded by European Commission under the programme H2020-MCSA-RISE-2015.

The invited plenary lectures (40 min), key note lectures (30 min) short oral presentations (15 min) and posters are planed

Breda O Driscot, Ireland
Peter Skládal, Czech Republic
Michael Thompson, Canada
Joseph Wang, USA

CONFIRMED PLENARY SPEAKERS

Prof. Michael Thompson, University of Toronto, Canada: "Surfacechemistry for an anti-fouling ultra-high frequency acoustic wave biosensor"

Prof. Joseph Wang, University of California San Diego, USA: "Self-propelled bioaffinty biosensors"

Dr. Ilia Ivanov, Oak Ridge National laboratories, USA: "Addressing the challenge of structure - functional characterization of thin polymer films"

IMPORTANT DEADLINES

May 16, 2016, Submission of the abstract and registration form
May 18, 2016, Information of authors about acceptance of abstracts
May 31, 2016, Payment of the workshop fee with discount
May 31 2016 Second announcement and workshop programme

WORKSHOP LOCATION

Congress Center Družba of the Comenius University in Bratislava
Address:
Botanicka 25
842 14 Bratislava
